How did the Stewards make their decision on a particular race? A disqualification? Or some other aspect that happened during the running of the race that you may want an explanation about.

There are three Stewards in the stand during the running of the races. Two of the Stewards actually watch the race live from the viewing stand high above the grandstand with binoculars. The third Steward views the running of the race via video feed from the track's film/video patrol service. Following the race, the Stewards may review the films of the race from several different angles so that they may see any infractions that may occur. In cases where a foul is detected, they may change the order of finish accordingly.

The Stewards maintain office hours on live racing days and can be reached at telephone number (302) 994-2521 ext. 7244, 7245, or 7246. All calls to the Stewards should be made during morning hours 8:30 a.m. to 11:15 a.m.

The Commission does not tolerate or condone cruelty to animals and reports of such offenses are quickly investigated. All complaints or tips can be forwarded to John F. Wayne, Executive Director either by telephone or e-mail at: john.wayne@state.de.us

How do I report any alleged integrity problems or violations of rules of the Delaware Thoroughbred Racing Commission or Laws of the State of Delaware as it pertains to horse racing?
